

How to calculate the length of a newly built optical cable

Overview

The recommended purchase length is the total slack-adjusted length multiplied by 1. This covers unexpected routing changes, measurement errors, and any re-termination that may be needed during installation. Choose your unit and keep it consistent. Set routing slack to cover bends and alignment. Lead-in fiber is a commercially available OTDR accessory with a connector on one end to match the OTDR network interface and a connector on the other end to match the connector encountered on the fiber under test. The chosen method may vary among cables; it is. This calculator evaluates cable length based on horizontal span and midspan sag using established geometric relationships applicable to lightly sagged cables under static conditions. Introduction: Fiber optic calculators use.
