

PLC splitter packaging

Overview

PLC splitters are available in several packaging options to accommodate different installation scenarios. Common packaging types include ABS boxes, plug-in modules, LGX trays, and 19-inch rack types. Each packaging solution is designed for ease of installation and maintenance, with many options. PLC Chip: Manufactured using semiconductor technology processes (such as photolithography, etching, etc. ), the splitting function is integrated into the chip. Optical Fiber Array: Using a V-groove substrate, a bundle of optical fibers or a ribbon of optical fibers are installed on the substrate at. A PLC splitter (Planar Lightwave Circuit Splitter) is an essential passive component in fiber optic networks. Its job is to evenly distribute a single optical signal to multiple output ports, ensuring effective signal distribution and transmission. In various fiber optic communication systems, such. Corning's QuickPath™ PLC optical splitters reduce insertion loss and deliver high performance.
