After numerous obstacles, the South African National Roads Agency Limited (Sanral) has restarted works on the Mntentu and Msikaba bridges in the Eastern Cape - with progress said to have been made since. The mega-bridges are part of the N2 Wild Coast Road Project that connects four provinces, namely. South Africa's longest suspension bridge is edging closer to completion along the Eastern Cape's Wild Coast, with the Msikaba Bridge now expected to open in late 2026. Sunday Times reports it is scheduled to feature in Building Impossible with Daniel Ashville, a National Geographic engineering series that will air from 12. The Msikaba Bridge project is more than just a construction endeavor—it's a symbol of progress, innovation, and hope for South Africa. Spanning 580 meters across a 198-meter-deep gorge, this R1.75 billion cable-stayed bridge is set to become Africa's longest of its kind.
